THEMATIC AREAS

WINOLOGY. REVIVING AND DEVELOPING RUSSIAN WINEMAKING BASED ON SCIENCE

- 📍 Sirius Park of Science and Art, 2nd floor, atrium of the Atom Hall

Winology is a scientific and entertainment platform that has been prepared jointly with the Kurchatov Institute National Research Centre. Science is the foundation for the revival and development of Russian winemaking, and Winology talks about Russian wine in the most unexpected ways: through chemical research, the aromas of vineyards, museum artifacts, gastronomy, southern flora, virtual travel, and, of course, dozens of tastings.

Event programme:

- The lecture hall will host open discussions and tastings dedicated to the chemistry and biology of wine, Russian autochthonous varieties, enogastronomy, and the promotion of Russian wine in the domestic and international markets
- A museum with dozens of unique archival documents will let you trace the history of Russian winemaking
- The presentation of the Atlas of Autochthonous Varieties will be complemented by an interactive zone with samples of 13 Russian terroirs
- A VR tour of the winery and aromatic compositions inspired by the nature of the country's wine-growing regions will open a portal to the hot southern vineyards

The Winology platform will have a cozy wine lounge and private area where you can hold negotiations while tasting different wine samples.

ALLEY OF THE REGIONS

📍 Sirius Park of Science and Art, 2nd floor, small passage

One of the key events of the III Young Scientists Congress will be the Alley of the Regions exhibition, which will show how the 18 initiatives of the Decade of Science and Technology are being implemented in Russia and inform people about the scientific potential of the country's regions and federal districts.

The exhibition will feature ten regions that are leaders in the ranking of the scientific and technological development of the regions, which was prepared by the Russian Ministry of Science and Higher Education based on indicators in three key areas: the authorities, the environment for conducting knowledge-intensive business, and the environment for researchers.

Each region and federal district represented at the exhibition will have infographics and information about projects and events they are implementing as part of the regional plan for the Decade of Science and Technology. Information about the federal districts will be supplemented by exhibits demonstrating the achievements of local science.

MIND SPORTS LOUNGE

📍 Sirius Park of Science and Art, 2nd floor, atrium of the Atom Hall

🕒 28–30 November, 09:00–18:00

The Mind Sports Lounge, a thematic project of RC-Sport, will be open at the Sirius Park of Science and Art throughout the Congress.

The games of go, chess, and checkers uniquely combine sports and the thrill of competition with training on strategic thinking, memory, and concentration, so it is only natural that they would be presented at an event for the country's leading young minds.

As an integral part of the Congress' official sports programme, the Mind Sports Lounge will serve as the venue for the Roscongress Cup tournaments in chess, checkers, and go, along with a simultaneous chess game session featuring international grandmaster and three-time world champion in chess composition Danila Pavlov.

Young scientists will be afforded the opportunity to challenge the international grandmaster, and upon conclusion of the session, they will have a try to solve intricate chess composition problems devised by a seasoned professional.

On any given day, Congress participants can partake in a unique game of floor chess and join a master class encompassing chess, checkers, and go.

Chess, checkers, and go serve not only as means of intellectual development and a global platform for people to connect over shared goals and interests, but also make them an exceptional avenue to establish business connections.

The events programme of the Mind Sports Lounge is available at the receptionist's desk of the Lounge.
